Exploring eBooks for School Libraries

As eBooks are becoming more popular, we are sure you are trying to figure out ways to incorporate them in your libraries. With this new technology, many questions may arise, such as:

- Which eReader device is best and why? Should my library lend devices as well as eBooks?
- Where can I get eBooks? How much are they? How many times can they be checked out before I have to purchase new ones?
- How will the eBooks be accessed, checked out and returned?
- What are some ways that I can use eBooks in lessons?

This workshop provides a forum for addressing these questions, and more, with librarians who have used eBooks in their libraries, as well as guest speakers. Guest speakers currently scheduled include Karen Shah from Northland Public Library, Christopher Andrews for Baker & Taylor's Blio, Lindsey Newman from Mackin, and Donna Palamara from Capstone's My On-Reader. Guests from B&N and Follett have not confirmed availability as of this sending (check website for updates) and information from PermaBound will be provided.
